Matthew Boulton College of Further and Higher education is a thriving city-centre college playing a key role within Birmingham and the West Midlands. The college offers a wide range of courses with Community Access and Foundation to Professional, Higher National and Degree.

CODA Architects are working on a review of the college's estate and a plan for its management and development.

This initial exercise has led to CODA Architects being commissioned to undertake designs for the refurbishment and extension of the Department of Printing into a centre of excellence.

Client: Mathew Boulton College
Project value: refurbishment project: £125k
